In nickname story

Correction noted

The December 21 issue of the NEWS contained the first part of a two-part article on nicknames. The article, written by Cy Grosvenor of Elmira, N.Y., was not reproduced exactly as Cy had written it. The first few paragraphs should have read as follows:

Forever is an eternity, but some nicknames will last that long.

Giovanni Di Bernardone is a name that is recognized by very few. By his nickname he is known to millions.

Giovanni journeyed to France with his father. He liked what he saw during his travels and imitated the dress and manners of the French when he returned to Italy. His companions dubbed him "Il Francesco". (The Frenchman). That nickname has endured for almost 800 years.

When he was 22 Giovanni (John) entered the religious life. He founded an order of friars and was canonized. The world knows him as "St. Francis of Assisi."

In seeking this legislative office, Lupini noted, "I am proud of my past record as a public official based on the ingredients of common sense, hard work, and dedication. My experience in office and my involvement with the people for the past ten years make me aware of their needs."
